—T. L. Banks and wife, of Harrisburg, arrived in Mapleton yesterday evening and will remain several days with Mrs. Banks' parents in Mapleton.

—Among the ITEM callers last week were our friends Prof. I. W. J. McClain, of Cassville; W. T. Steel and Jacob Bumgardner, of Calvin, and A. P. Stever, of Hare's Valley.

—H. A. Chilcote, of Ormsby, McKean county, is circulating among friends in Mapleton. Mr. Chilcote was summoned to Mount Union last Friday to attend the funerol of his father-in-law, Henry Ripple.

—When you cannot sleep for coughing, it is hardly necessary that any one should tell you that you need a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to allay the irritation of the throat, and make sleep possible. It is good. Try it. For sale by J. G. Gillam.

—Special sale of lot men's, ladies and misses' dress shoes, only one or two pairs of a lot, worth $1.50 to $2.00, placed on our bargain counter for $1.20. Lot of misses' and children' shoes worth $1.00, for 75c. B. O'Connor & Sons.

—When you have no appetite, do not relish your food and feel dull after eating you may know that you need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at J. G. Gillam's store.

—The amount of food it requires to sustain the inmates of an institution like the Huntingdon Reformatory may be judged from the fact that it took 33½ bushels of beans, 303 dozen of corn, 1575 cantalopes, 923 heads of cabbage, 325 dozen of cucumbers, 2085 pounds of onions, 7535 pounds of potatoes, 24 bushels of sweet potatoes, 22 bushels of tomatoes, 39 bushels peaches and one barrel of pickles to furnish the tables during the month of September.

—L. S. Geisinger, of Huntingdon, has been drawn as a grand juror for the term of the United States court of the Middle dristict of Pennsylvania which convenes in Harrisburg, Monday, November 11th. W. E Faulkender, of Huntingdon, has been drawn as a petit jurior for the same term.

—A new remedy for biliousness is now on sale at J. G. Gillam's store. It is called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. It gives quick relief and will prevent the attack if given as soon as the first indication of the disease appears. Price, 25 cents per box. Samples free.

—A small son of John Hillis, a farmer living near Winimac, Indiana, recently left the team he was driving near some beehives while he chased a squirrel. The horses backed the wagon into the hives and were so badly stung that they died an hour and a half later. The boy also was stung, and probably will be blind as the result.

—J. W. Sweetwood, of Spring Mills, Centre county, had a mammoth tomato vine in his garden that produced 7000 tomatoes. The plant covered a plot 18 feet square, the whole forming an almost solid mass of vines. From this plant and three others a large bucket of tomatoes was picked every other day for some time. The variety was the little yellow tomatoes.

—"For three days and nights I suffered agony untold from an attack of cholera morbus brought on by eating cucumbers," says M. E. Lowther, clerk of the district court, Centerville, Iowa. "I thought I should surely die, and tried a dozen different medicines but all to no purpose. I sent for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and three doses relieved me entirely." This remedy is for sale by J. G. Gillam.

—At a session of argument court held at Huntingdon, Pa., October 14, 1901, a decree was made changing the time for holding December court. Instead of holding the regular December sessions beginning on the 1st and 2nd Mondays of that month, as heretofore, said term will be held during the second and third weeks, viz: beginning Monday, December 9th, and Monday, December 16th. Jurors summoned for the week beginning December 2nd will not report until Monday, December 9th, and those summoned for the week beginning December 9th will not report until Monday, December 16th.

—The megaphone is to be used at the new Union station by the train callers, says the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette. The good results attending the use of this instrument at the New York Central station at Buffalo during the exposition season has called attention to it the country over. Large crowds have daily been kept in good order and at times in good humor by the megaphone man. He is stationed on a platform near the train entrance to trains. His directions can be heard all over the building. It is proposed to have such a platform as this in the Pittsburg station. The size of the waiting room and adjoining rooms, barber shop, dining rooms, ladies' waiting room, etc., make necessary a louder call than the voice can give.

—Mount Union Times: Samuel Wilson, for the last five years assistant cashier of the Orbisonia Bank, a branch of the Central Banking Company of this place, has accepted a similar position with the Altoona Trust Company. Mr. Wilson will be succeeded in the Orbisonia Bank by J. Bruce Davis, assistant cashier of the Central Banking Company, and Richard J. Faust, Jr., will take the place of Mr. Davis at this place. We congratulate Mr. Wilson and Mr. Davis on their promotions and trust they will continue to be promoted from time to time, as they are both hard workers and deserving young men. As for Mr. Faust, he is simply equipped to fill the position in which he has been recently appointed and will make an obliging bank clerk. The change goes into effect Monday next. The Times wishes the three young men success.

—After January 1 the railroads will not accept as baggage anything but luggage containing personal effects which accompany the owner. The express companies have been making a kick over the indiscriminate checking of articles as baggage which under no stretch of the imagination could be considered as such.

Alexander Hall.

Alexander Hall died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. David Hutchison, in Mapleton at 8.40 o'clock, Wednesday morning, October 23, 1901, of senility.

Deceased was born in Shirley township, October 15, 1817, and was aged 84 years and 8 days. After reaching maturity he was united in marriage to Miss Julian Davis, of Shirley township. They commenced housekeeping in Germany valley where most of their children were born. Subsequently they moved to Shade Gap and about a quarter of a century ago purchased the William Smith property at the mouth of Smith valley to which they moved. Here Mrs. Hall died about seven years ago. After the death of Mrs. Hall, Mr. Hall made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Hutchison, in Mapleton. About forty years years ago he united with the Dunkard church and though there was no church of that faith in this section he lived according to his faith. He was a generous, kind-hearted Christian man. He is survived by the following children: Mrs. Maggie Hutchison, of Mapleton, Mrs. D. F. Sloan and Miss Mary Hall, of Union township, James Hall and Mrs. Sydney McGee, of Shade Gap, Mrs. Ida Harshbarger, of Mifflin county, and George, whose address is not known. The remains were interred last Friday morning in the U. B. cemetery, services being conducted by Rev. W. H. Norcross.

Mrs. J. F. Steiner.

From the Philipsburg Journal, October 23.

Mrs. Elizabeth Steiner, relict of the late Jacob F. Steiner, deceased, who for many years was a prominent lumberman in this section, passed to her final home last night about 10 o'clock after lingering near the gates of death for more than a couple of weeks. While her condition was such as to give little or no hope of her recovery, yet her death was naturally a shock to the whole community. She was one of the best known and most highly esteemed citizens of this section, and the fact of her death has caused very general sorrow.

The deceased was aged 74 years. She was a native of Huntingdon county, having been born near the village of Waterstreet. Her maiden name was Harnish. She was married to Jacob F. Steiner, February 1, 1849, who died on Sebtember 15, 1882. Two sons and six daughters are left to mourn the loss of one of the most affectionate mothers, viz: Alton, of Bedford; Ida, wife of Captain C. T. Fryberger, this city; Ella, wife of W. H. Sandford, Patton; Harry, Chester Hill; Elizabeth, wife of A. W. Marks, this city; Misses Ione and Effie, at home in Chester Hill, and Mrs. Ray Potter, wife of the late William Potter, deceased, of Chester Hill. Four sisters also survive, viz: Mrs. Ann Hewitt, Mrs. Mary Burket, of Huntinghon county Mrs. Rachel Hileman, of Blair county, and Mrs. Lydia Keller, of Pittsburg, who was present at the death bed of her sister.

Marriage Licenses.

John M. Dixon and Nora B. Emeigh, both of Warriorsmark.

Wm. F. Morningstar, Lincoln township, and Margaret J. McCray, Hopewell township.

William G. Woomer and Gertrude M. Weston, both of Tyrone, Pa.

John C. Schuldt, Pittsburg, Pa., and Bessie J. Brenneman, Porter township.

Wilbur H. Whittaker, Huntingdon, and Anna M. Oburn, Mooresville.

John N. Beck, Alexandria, and Rosa A. Crawford, Warriorsmark.

Herman I. E. White, Cass township, and Lizzie Leffard, Broad Top City.

Monroe Fleck, Orbisonia, and Mary E. Holland, Rockhill Furnace.

Henry Ripple.

Henry Ripple, of Mount Union, departed this life on Thursday afternoon last, aged 63 years, 7 months and 17 days. He was found dead on the Alex Maxwell farm in Mount Union and it is supposed died of heart disease. He was engaged in conveying some coal to his home at the time of his death, which had been given him by the contractors who were operating along the river, and was found dead by some boys who were engaged in the same work and who had seen him yet alive on their way down, but when they returned found him lying dead.

Henry Ripple was an earnest Christian man, and was affectionately regarded in the community in which he lived by all who knew him. He was the father of a family of six sons and two daughters, all living, and were present at the funeral obsequies which were held in the Methodist Episcopal church, of which he was a member. His pastor, Rev. L. M. Brady, preached an eloquent sermon on his demise and spoke feelingly of the simple and steadfast faith of the deceased in God. The grief of the widow, children and friends was touching.

He had been a kind father and good provider for them all. He was kind to the poor and shared what he had with others. Until about four years ago he had been engaged in the tannery of Faust Bros. in Mount Union, having commenced work there about the beginning of the civil war when it was owned by other parties. His children carefully looked after the temporal welfare of the old folks when no longer able to follow his occupation. He had been afflicted with stomach trouble for some years and was not in the best of health, though his sudden death was not expected. He was born near Mt. Union in 1838. The funeral was one of the largest ever seen in Mt. Union and he was laid to rest in the Odd Fellows' cemetery, after services had been held at the house and church. His six sons acted as pall bearers. A large number of the immediate friends were present.

Who Knows?

There lies buried on the farm now owned by Michael E. Dell in Smith valley, formerly known as the Benjamin Kyler farm, one by the name Amos Laughrin (this may not be the correct spelling of the name). He was the grandfather of Geo. L., Amos L., Jesse and David L. Smith. The remains were interred in a hallow south of the road leading from the buildings to the mountain. The writer does not know the exact location of this grave, there being several other graves in the same ravine. If anyone knows the exact location of this resting place of one of Cass township's pioneer settlers, we shall deem it a favor if such will kindly inform us. Amos L. and his brother once owned what is several farms in the vicinity of Garfield schoolhouse, Cass township.

We are reliably informed that the subject of this inquiry was one of the men who fought for independence in the Revolutionary war. This resting place should be pointed out. It such can be done by some reader of this article, steps will be taken to mark in a permanent manner the grave of this one of the "King's enemies" whose courage aided in securing an acknowledgment of the Declaration of Independeuce by the English King, George III.

A Fiendish Attack.

An attack was lately made on C. F. Collier, of Cherokee, Iowa, that nearly proved fatal. It came through his kidneys. His back got so lame he could not stoop without great pain, nor sit in a chair except propped by cushions. No remedy helped him until he tried Electric Bitters which effected such a wonderful change that he writes he feels like a new man. This marvelous medicine cures backache and kidney trouble, purifies the blood and builds up your health Only 50c at W. H. Spangler's store.

G. A. R. Annual Supper.

General Charles Albright Post No. 483, Grand Army of the Republic, of Three Springs, Pa., held their annual hard-tack supper Saturday, the 26th, in the G. A. R. hall. This annual celebration is looked upon by the old veterans, their wives and families and especially the widows of veterans, as a day of pleasure and enjoyment. Special preparations and arrangements are made for these meetings so that they may be beneficial in a social and intellectual way, as well as of pleasure and mutual enjoyment. Good speakers are always secured for the occasion, together with a number of veterans who are possessed with oratory and superior ability for the entertaining of an intelligent and attentive audience. Some of the civilians of our town take very active part in these special occasions and help make it a day long to be remembered and make the veterans feel that it was good to be there, indeed so much so that many of them would like to see the event become semi-annualy or even quarterly. The Revs. Bickel and Shaffer were the chief orators and made very interesting addresses.

The bill of fare consisted partly of hot coffee, bologna, hard-tack, chicken, roast beef, pies, cakes and a number of sweet things. Long before the hour for supper a crowd of several hundred people had assembled at the hall and filled it to its utmost capacity. The table was so arranged as to seat about one hundred, and fairly groaned under its weight of good things so liberally contributed. To say that the meal was enjoyed is putting it mildly, especially by a few whose names we would like to mention but who by their nervous temperament would not like to be confronted by bashful embarrassment, hence we withhold their names from the public. But we cannot refrain from saying that some of them gained in avoirdupois during the supper hour, ranging from eight to fifteen pounds. They certainly did justice to the occasion. Boys—we mean those large boys with bay windows—contribute liberally next time again.

THE COMPASS.

A thing so fragile that one feather's weight
Might break its poise or turn the point aside,
The mightiest vessel, with her tons of freight,
O'er pathless seas from port to port will guide.

What wonder, then, if lodged within the breast,
Some simple, yet unwavering faith may lie
To guide the laden soul to ports of rest
And, like compass, point it to the sky?

PRIVATE CORY.

BY ATHOL FORBES.

Perhaps it would never have happened had a comrade given him a word of encouragement. But the men were too intent on the grim work before them, so, in the hail of lead, when Private Cory dropped to the ground, it was generally understood that a bullet had knocked him over. Such, however, was not the case, as the ambulance corps following in the rear soon discovered. He had merely fainted from fright.

The doctor turned over the shivering bit of humanity to look for the wound, found none, and smiled. Cases of this kind were not unknown to him. "Poor fellow," he murmured, "let him remain with the rest."

"No, he is not hurt at all," he said to one of his assistants. "His wound will come afterwards when he recovers from that faint, and God help him then. There is no bullet wound that will give him the agony that is before him."

"Shall I throw a bucket of water over him, sir?" asked a man with a blood stained bandage round his head, but sufficient of his face left uncovered to show his intense disgust at his comrade.

"No, you must not disturb him," was the curt answer, and he turned to give his attention to the burdens which the stretchers were now quickly depositing in the improvised hospital.

"Poor lad," he mused, as he bent over his work. "I must give him a word of encouragement when he comes around."

But when, later on, Private Cory staggered to his feet, the kindly doctor was too busy to notice him. He looked wonderingly round the tent. Then the remembrance of what he had done seemed to rise up and strike him full in the face. He sank down with a choking sob. He clutched the earth with his hands, as men do when struck down in battle with a mortal wound. It was a burning hot day—the wounded were suffering terribly from the intense heat—but he shivered with cold. Outside the shells were screaming, while now and again came the subdued but harsh growl of the smaller arms. It seemed as if a thousand voices were shouting at him and reproaching him for his cowardice. Then a human voice joined in the wild orchestra.

"You bloomin' cur. Call yourself man?"

It was the stern sergeant of his company who had been brought in wounded in three places before he had given up. His face was gray with the pain he was enduring, but he must needs give vent to his disgust at such pusilanimity. A contemptuous smile played about his bloodless lips.

"I call it gettin' money under false pretences. You're clothed and stuffed with the best o' everything the country can send out, includin' a briar pipe and baccy, and then yer go and—pah!" and he broke off. "I couldn't hev believed it o' any man in the whole bloomin' company."

He stopped because the pain of his wounds became too great, and he bit hard the piece of Cavendish he had in his mouth to stifle a groan, but other men took up the cue.

No agony of the battlefield could equal what Private Cory was now enduring. He quivered as if acted upon by some powerful electric current, but he made no answer to their taunts, and continued to lie with his face turned to the ground. He tried to reconstruct the wreck of his manhood, but his brain was still in a whirl and those shrieking shells outside still seemed to be telling the world that he was a miserable coward.

A man was handing round some broth. He had been hours without food, and the savory odor caused a craving hunger to take possession of him. A pannikin full was being passed from which men took a drink, their expectant comrades looking on with eager, wistful eyes. Cory raised his head, hoping his turn had come, but he was immediately greeted with a storm of curses that caused him to drop it again. Fool that he was to expect it. He might have known.

"Give Cory some of that soup. Hold up."

At that moment the doctor came up. "My lad," he said not unkindly, "you may make a soldier yet. Drink this," and he handed him the tin vessel.

"He is the broth of a boy," shouted a man, and this poor joke was greeted with laughter, even by those who knew that they had but a few hours to live.

Cory sat up. The soup seemed to put life into him, and he ceased to shiver. He was barely out of his teens but his face in its ashy grayness looked more like that of a man who had passed his prime.

"Feeling a bit better now?" began the sergeant.

"He'll run for it as soon as he is able," remarked another. "Whew, listen," he broke off as a shell exploded just outside.

"They seem to have got range of us now,"

For a few seconds there was silence as the men realized their danger. The angry growl of the quick fires was every now and then punctured by the long, deep mouthed baying of the Boers' Long Tom.

"They are aiming at us," shouted a man, running into the tent with his right arm hanging helpless by his side.

Immediately there was a violent concussion; the air filled with smoke and a pungent smell, and the tent lit up with a tongue of flame. In an instant three or four men sprang forward and the fire was extinguished.

"The next shot will count a hit if I am not mistaken."

Scarcely were the words out of his mouth when a huge rent suddenly opened in the canvas and a shell dropped right into the middle of the tent. The wounded ducked under their covering as if they would bury themselves beneath the ground. The doctor, with another, rushed forward; but Private Cory was before them.

"Not you, doctor," he shouted, as he seized the bomb.

"Quick, man. Into the bucket with it," said the doctor. "No, there's no water. Merciful powers!"

But Cory had dashed through the opening, and was running like a hare. They were all dumfounded for a moment. Then a cheer broke from them when they realized what he was doing—a cheer in which dying men joined.

"Throw it away! Now! Throw it!" yelled the doctor after him.

Still he ran. The music of what he knew was their applause rang in his ears. Nothing had ever sounded so sweet to him as this. He smiled. It reminded him faintly of his achievements in the football field when the crowd roared their approval. The ball he carried now was heavier, but the applause—only he knew what it meant to him, and he clutched the destructive missle like a child hugging a doll. He felt inclined to kiss it. If he lived he would be a man and a comrade again. If not—but he ran on.

Some one had wisely said that it requires often but the turn of a straw to make a coward a hero, or a hero a coward. Cory was a man again. The paralysis of panic that had seized him a few hours ago and had frozen his heart existed now only as a hideous dream. Another 10 yards—he was quite 50 from the tent. He heard them urging him to throw it. A few more yards, then with a tremendous effort he hurled it from him. Instantly there was an explosion, and Cory fell on his face.

"Poor chap. He is done for, I doubt," said the doctor, as several raced forward, followed by a number of wounded, who limped in pain.

They knelt by the poor shattered body. The sergeant, his old tormentor, regardless of his own wounds, had been among the first who rushed to his assistance.

Cory raised the only hand left him, which the sergeant clasped, murmuring something about forgiveness. A smile of exultation played about his face for a moment, then the film of death gathered over his eyes. He tried to speak, but no words came in obedience to the moving of his lips, for his soul had taken its flight to that land where brave spirits are at rest.—The World's Events.

Collapsing and Exploding Boilers.

"There is a good deal of inaccuracy in the popular talk about boilers blowing up or exploding," said an old boilermaker, discussing the wreck of the City of Trenton.

"If too much pressure is exerted on the interior of a boiler which is weak in any part, the weak part will give and the boiler will collapse. If anybody is standing near it at the time he runs the risk of being fatally scalded by the steam, but the boiler stays just where it was and nothing is wrecked but the boiler. This is what sometimes happens to kitchen boilers, which never can, in the true sense, blow up or explode. But when the boiler is equally strong in every part and steam is generated so suddenly that it has no chance to escape through the safety valve a real explosion occurs, the boiler is torn from its fastenings and tears through the air like a tremendous cannon ball. Such an explosion is attended by a general wreck of everything in the path of the boiler, and usually by horrible fatalities."—Philadelphia Times.

"Are you familiar with this new Russian novelist?"

"I would hardly assume to say that," answered the modest person. "I have read all his works, but I wouldn't think of trying to pronounce his name."—Washington Star.

BULLER LOSES HIS POST

Is Relieved of His Command and Placed on Half Pay.

RESULT OF HIS RECENT SPEECH

General French, When He Returns From South Africa, Will Command the First Army Corps—His Selection a Popular One—Buller Would Not Resign When He Had the Opportunity.

London.—Sir Redvers Buller, of the First Army Corps, has been relieved of the command practically in disgrace, in consequence of the speech he made on October 10, after the luncheon given in his honor by the King's Royal Rifles, dealing with his famous dispatch to General White, in Ladysmith. He has been placed on half pay, and General French has been appointed to succeed him.

In the official announcement the War Office says that the Commander-in-Chief, "after full consideration of all the circumstances and the explanations furnished," recommended that General Buller be relieved, which has been done.

The appointment of General French is to take effect "when his services are no longer required in South Africa." Pending General French's return General Hildyard will command in Aldershot.

General Buller's supercession was not unexpected, but the manner of it has caused a sensation. It is understood that the Government endeavored to break the fall by giving to him the option of resigning, but that Buller declined to give way.

The morning papers all express sympathy for the unfortunate ending of a brilliant career, but they are unanimous that no other course was open after his indiscreet speech, and they express the greatest approval of the selection of General French to succeed him.

The speech which has caused the disgrace and downfall of Buller caused a great sensation all over England. In it he expressed his condemnation of the newspaper criticisms of men who were doing their best and risking their lives for the country. He asserted that nobody junior to him was fitted to command an army corps and he challenged the critics to name one. General Buller said he had been attacked on account of a telegram which it was said he had sent ordering General White to surrender Ladysmith after his (Buller's) attack on Colenso, on December 15, 1900, had resulted unsuccessfully. General Buller described his own and General White's difficulties at that time. He said that at that time he prepared a message telling General White that his (Buller's) attack had failed and he could not make another attempt to relieve him within a month in the then slow fighting.

General Buller said he read this telegram over several times, saying to himself: "That's a mean thing to send a fellow," but he knew the responsibility was his, and that General White could say, if he surrendered, that General Buller had advised it. The same telegram suggested that it might be necessary to surrender, and in that case General Buller made some suggestions as to what General White should do and how he should do it, thinking that it would be cover for a man whom he believed to be in greater difficulties than his own.

The London newspapers were divided in their opinions of Buller's speech. A majority of them, including some that were not hostile to General Buller, regarded it as an amazing blunder, and greatly regretted that the General did not adhere to his lately avowed practice not to answer newspaper criticism. Several papers declared that his explanation that he heliographed to General White, suggesting that it might be necessary for him to surrender and advising what to do in such a case, actually was instruction to surrender, and they condemned him accordingly.

SHIP WEATHERED GALVESTON STORM

Was Blown Upon the Island and Lay There a Year.

New York City.—A souvenir of the Galveston hurricane of September 8, 1900, reached this port in the shape of the British steamship Roma, which was blown broadside on the current and swept through four bridges with Captain Storm and his crew hanging on amidships.

Had not the wind changed to the southeast the Roma would have been blown to the end of the island and into the Gulf by way of the San Luis Pass. She was high and dry a year, lacking one day.

The Roma will be dry-docked and overhauled at this port, whence she will double Cape Horn for the Pacific trade.

SPEECH FREE IN VIRGINIA.

Provision in the New Constitution Finally Adopted.

Richmond, Va.—After a long and bitter fight the Constitutional Convention, by a vote of 37 to 17, adopted in the Bill of Rights a provision for freedom of the press and speech. It is as follows:

"That the freedom of the press is one of the great bulwarks of liberty, and can never be restrained but by despotic governments. And any citizen may speak, write and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that liberty."

MINOR EVENTS OF THE WEEK

WASHINGTON ITEMS.

Much regret is expressed by officials over the hostile attitude to arbitration assumed by Chile in the Pan-American Congress.

The body of Senator C. K. Davis was removed from Minnesota to Washington and interred in Arlington Cemetery.

Special Commissioner Rockhill, back from China, resumed charge of the Bureau of American Republics.

The annual report of Rear-Admiral O'Neil, Chief of the Navy Bureau of Ordnance, submitted estimates aggregating $10,902,606, of which $6,000,000 is for navy increase, armor and armament.

NEW RECORD IN SHIPBUILDING.

Wood Still Outranks Steel in Importance in Industry at Bath, Me.

Bangor, Me.—While shipbuilding is prosperous all along the coast of Maine this year, Bath is particularly prosperous, and the new fleet turned out there in 1901 will be notable, both for aggregate of tonnage and for character of the vessels.

There are now under construction in the Bath yards naval vessels aggregating 21,435 tons, to cost $5,637,650, and merchant vessels, aggregating 27,400 tons, to cost $1,503,000, a total of 48,835 tons, costing $7,140,650. The grand total of vessels launched thus far this year and now under construction represents 74,214 tons, and, with ship machinery contracts now in hand, a value of $9,510,150. These figures establish a new record for Bath, both in tonnage and in value.

Wood still outranks steel in importance, the steel tonnage launched this year amounting to 4400 tons, valued at $770,000, while the wooden vessels aggregate 20,979 tons, valued at $1,000,500.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK BRIGHT.

The Substance of the Reports Received by the Commercial Agencies.

New York City.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: "Unfavorable signs are rare in the business outlook. Manufacturing industries enjoy exceptional activity and most jobbers and retailers find no occasion for complaint."

Bradstreet's says: "Among the notable features brought out in trade dispatches to Bradstreet's this week are the reports of stimulated retail trade, due to cooler settled weather and advices of continued activity in all leading industrial lines."

BI-CENTENNIAL OF YALE

The President and Other Distinguished Men Get Honorary Degrees.

AN OVATION FOR ROOSEVELT

The Old University's Celebration Came to an End With Pomp and Ceremony — Elaborate Precautions Taken to Guard the Chief Executive — No Hand-Shaking at the Reception.

New Haven, Conn.—The ceremonies with which Yale University commemorated the founding of the college 200 years ago ended Wedneday, bringing to a triumphal close the great bi-centennial festival. The head of the nation was present in the person of President Theodore Roosevelt. England, Europe and the Far East contributed their share of honor when their representatives, men of academic renown, marched as delegates in the procession and participated in the closing functions. The Church, Protestant and Roman Catholic, sanctioned the day with the presence of famous prelates.

President Roosevelt received a great ovation while receiving his degree of Doctor of Laws. When the reading of the long list of honors had been nearly finished President Hadley advanced a step or two and with great impresivenes said:

"There yet remains one name." In an instant the great audience was standing. The President of the United States also arose and the theatre rang with cheers. The air was filled with waving handkerchiefs and programmes.

Remarking that Yale had chosen for the degree this candidate before he became President, President Hadley announced that all Yale men were now doubly honored by greeting the man and the President as a son of Yale.

President Roosevelt, advanced, bowed profoundly, and tried to speak. Again the audience cheered, and it was fully a minute before he was allowed to proceed.

He said: "President Hadley—I have never yet worked at a task worth doing that I did not find myself working shoulder to shoulder with some son of Yale. I have never yet been in a struggle for righteousness and decency that there were not men of Yale to aid me and give me strength and courage.

"As we walked hither this morning we passed by a gate which was raised to the memory of a young Yale lad who was hurt to death beside me as he and a great many others like us marched against the gunfire from the heights, and with those memories quick in my mind I thank you from my heart for the honor you have done me, and I thank you doubly, for you planned to do me that honor while I was yet a private citizen."

President Roosevelt and President Hadley entered the Hyperion Theatre at 10.30 a. m. The President of the United States was led to the seat of honor directly behind the orator's desk. On the platform were Ambassador Joseph H. Choate, Secretary of State John Hay, Richard Olney, Chief Justice Melville, W. Fuller and Justice Brewer, of the Supreme Court; Presidents Eliot, of Harvard; Low, of Columbia; Patton, of Princeton; Harrison, of Pennsylvania, and dozens of other college presidents.

Rear-Admiral Sampson, apparently feeble and in ill-health, made his way to his place through a side door, and, leaning on the arm of Professor W. W. Farnham, was shown to his seat.

The commemoration exercises were begun with the performance of the overture to "Die Meistersinger von Nurnberg."

A poem entitled "Mater Coronata," by Edmund Clarence Stedman, in eulogy of the university, was then read.

The commemorative address was delivered by David J. Brewer, LL. D., Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, his topic being "Yale's Relation to Public Service." Justice Brewer was given an ovation on his conclusion.

Then came the presentation of honorary degrees and the investing of the recipients with academic hoods.

A farewell reception by President and Mrs. Hadley was held in the evening, and the presence of the President of the United States lent impressiveness to the occasion.

President Roosevelt and Dr. and Mrs. Hadley stood upon a small raised platform midway to one side of the hall. Close at hand were Secret Service officers and policemen. The purpose was to admit only those wearing badges. These numbered several thousand, and a great number of the general uninvited public also managed to gain entrance.

Particularly noticeable was the extreme caution, not only of the officers but of those having the affair in charge, for the adequate protection of the President. There was no hand shaking. The suggestion to eliminate this old-time custom originated with President and Mrs. Hadley, and was readily adopted by the President. It is estimated that 5000 persons attended the reception.

At the conclusion of the reception the President returned to the Farnam residence, where dinner was served at 7.30. The guests included President Roosevelt, President Hadley, Secretary of State John Hay, Joseph H. Choate, Andrew D. White, Archbishop Ireland, President Eliot, of Harvard; Seth Low, President Patton, of Princeton, Whitelaw Reid and Edmund Clarence Stedman.

STATE NEWS BUDGET.

Accidents to Mine Employes.

The collapse of a culm bank, caused by the settling of an old, worked-out lift, engulfed a ten-ton locomotive, three loaded mine cars and a seventeen-year-old "patcher" boy named James O'Connor at St. Nicholas colliery at Mahanoy City. The bank upon which the engine and cars were being run gave way beneath them, and they plunged into a yawning abyss. The engineer escaped by jumping. By an explosion of gas at Gilberton colliery at Shenandoah George Davis, aged forty-five years; his two sons, William, aged twenty-four, and Jabez, aged twenty-two, and William Bradley, aged twenty-nine, a boarder, were injured. The father was seriously burned about the face, neck and hands, and his two sons were slightly burned about the face and neck. The men were robbing pillars and struck a gas feeder. Anthony Ross, fourteen years old, employed at the Webster Coal and Coke Company's mine in Gallitzin, was killed just after having left the company's works. A party of men were breaking up old cast iron near the works with dynamite. When the explosion took place a piece of iron weighing about ten pounds struck the boy in the head, causing instant death. Two miners, Wm. McArdle and Felix McGorry, employed in No. 1 tunnel of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, at Nesquehoning, were terribly injured by a premature explosion of dynamite. McArdle's eyes were blown out and he was fatally injured. John Neary was smothered to death by falling into the rice coal bin at Sioux colliery at Shamokin.

Mollie Maguire Confession.

Word has reached Williamsport from Alabama that a man named Dongan has confessed to complicity in the murder of Alexander Rae, one of the famous Mollie Maguire crimes of the Pennsylvania coal fields. Rae was killed at what was then known as the "Water Barrel," on the road leading from Centralia to Mount Carmel, in Columbia County. Three men have been hanged for the crime, Hester, Tully and McHugh. A fourth got his freedom by turning State's evidence. The name Dongan, given as the man in the South who has confessed to complicity in the famous murder, is not known in the records of the case. The crime was committed in 1868 and was one of the most cold-blooded of the Mollie Maguire series.

Mystery in a Tragedy.

After attending a corn-husking party in the vicinity of his home Edward Lenker, aged seventeen years, quarreled with several young men. The following morning his body was found hanging in his father's barn. One end of a bag rope was fastened about his neck, while the other was attached to a rafter. It is believed that he committed suicide, but many of his friends are of opinion that he was murdered.

Lived Days With Torn Brain.

Robert Grey, a ten-year-old boy, of Connellsville, lived for nearly a week with a bullet wound squarely through the brain. Boys were shooting at a mark near the Gibson school house, and a short time afterward Grey was found unconscious. Brian Seaman, a boy, was arrested on a charge of murder, he being alleged to have done the shooting.

Woman Coughs Up a Tooth.

Two months ago Mrs. Jacob Meyers, of Williamsport, immediately after a visit to a dentist, grew ill and was attacked by a fit of coughing. These paroxysms have occurred almost daily since. While experiencing another attack she coughed up a tooth which had slipped down her throat while she was on the dentist's chair.

Four Miles of Forest Burned.

One of the largest forest fires for years has raged on the South Mountain, opposite Shippensburg. Strong wind carried it down into the valley, and men, women and children fought the fire to save their homes. It covered about four miles of territory.

Sharper Victimizes a Bank.

A money order that had been raised from ten cents to $46.10 was presented at the York Postoffice for payment by a York bank, with which it had been deposited. An out-of-town bank will lose the money, it having sent the order on for collection.

Demented Man Caught in Woods.

A demented man, entirely naked, was captured in Sandycreek Township and lodged in jail at Franklin. He says he is Luther Turk, of Philadelphia. He has been living on roots in the woods for some time and terrorizing farmers.

SCHLEY TELLS OF SEA FIGHT

Gives the Court of Inquiry His Version of the Battle of Santiago.

EXPLAINS THE BROOKLYN'S LOOP

The Rear-Admiral Denies the Story That He Showed Fear—Describes How the Brooklyn and Oregon Destroyed the Spanish Ships—Declares the Hodgson Colloquy a Fiction—Clark's Testimony

Washington, D. C.—"And that ended the battle of Santiago, on the third day of July, 1898. I would like to say that I was very much impressed on that day with the fact that the officers and the men who were engaged in that struggle fulfilled in the very highest and the very noblest degree the traditions of the American Navy."

With these words uttered slowly, gravely and impressively, Rear-Admiral Schley concluded the most absorbing and thrilling story of the Santiago fight that has ever been told. The story began with the day before the fight, when Schley saw suspicious movements in the harbor, and sent the Vixen to notify Sampson. Earlier in the day Lieutenant Harlow of the Vixen had testified that he received the order from Schley and that the Vixen carried the message.

When the Spaniards came out Schley determined to head for them and hold them until the slower battleships could come up. But this plan failed, and the Spaniards got away. Schley instantly determined to try a new plan, and hence issued the order to "Close up," and "Follow the flag." "Captain Clark," he said, "knew very well that it wasn't intended for him, because he was following the flag, and so he repeated it to the other ships."

At the time of the loop the Brooklyn was so near the Spanish ship that Schley saw, with the naked eye, Spanish sailors running from the turret to the superstructure, "and," he said, "I could see the daylight between their legs as they ran." During the turn he never saw the starboard side of the Texas and never crossed her bows, and never was nearer than 600 yards. She was so distant that the thought of collision never entered his head. The Hodgson colloquy never occurred. "In the first place," said Schley, "he was too good an officer to transgress one of the plainest duties of an officer at such times, and, secondly, if he had undertaken it I would not have permitted it for a second. It is fiction. There was no colloquy."

When they got out on the ocean and were engaged by the four leading Spaniards, Schley believed that the Brooklyn would have to conduct the fight alone, because the battleships could not catch up, and remarked to Cook: "We must stay with that crowd." Then the Oregon came up, and Schley said he never before realized what rapid gunfire meant. The ships were a sheet of flames. Smoke came out of the hatches of the Spaniards and streamed up in almost perpendicular column. When the Colon surrendered Schley sent Cook aboard with orders to give no terms but unconditional surrender.

He said that he was delighted to have Sampson send him and the Oregon after what was supposed to be Camara's fleet, because after what those two ships had done he felt that they could meet "anything that carried the Spanish colors." The Oregon went back and Schley went on alone. H got up to within 1800 yards of the stranger before he found that she was an Austrian. His starboard battery had been entirely disabled during the battle, and he was manoeuvring to get her with his port battery.

Without any trace of feeling Admiral Schley denied Lieutenant Pott's story that he showed fear at the affair of May 31. "Mr. Potts," he said slowly and quietly, "is entirely in error in thinking that I took advantage of any protection at that time. It is not a fact." He paused, and then added, "We were going head on and there was no protection for anybody."

A notable utterance of Schley's during the day was, "The fact that this blockade, both at Santiago and Cienfuegos, was sufficient is proved by the fact that no vessel entered the harbor or escaped."

Captain Cla..., who commanded the Oregon, testified on the previous day. He said when the Oregon joined the Brooklyn during the battle, Schley was engaging four Spaniards at once. He testified that Sampson's plan of battle was not followed, and the battle was not fought in accordance with any squadron orders previously issued.

"It made a deep impression on me," he said, "to find the Brooklyn there, and I felt that we should mutually sustain and support each other." In fact, all the testimony of that day was to the effect that with some slight assistance from the Texas, the whole battle was fought and won by the Brooklyn and the Oregon.

When Major Murphy was recalled to correct his testimony, he added an interesting story about the battle. When it was over and Schley had sent Captain Cook aboard the Colon to receive the surrender, he addresed his officers and men, cautioning them not to cheer when the Spanish captain came on board. Schley said the Spaniard had fought gallantly and made a good fight, and must be treated any cheering. Later when the Brooklyn came alongside the Iowa, where Cervera was, Schley repeated this. Cervera heard it and appreciated it very deeply.

WEYLER UTTERS A THREAT

Spanish General Intimates That He May Become a Dictator

His Speech Creates a Sensation in the Chamber of Deputies — He Says He is a Soldier Before All.

Madrid, Spain.—In a sensational sitting of the Chamber of Deputies Senor Romero y Robledo cleverly led the Minister of War, General Weyler, to define his attitude and intentions. General Weyler declared that while the war in Cuba lasted his views were totally distinct from those of the Liberal party, but that when the war was at an end the motive for separation disappeared, and he saw nothing to prevent him attaching himself to a Liberal Government.

"I have always faithfully observed discipline," General Weyler continued, "and he who talks of dictatorship is the enemy of discipline. Our recent manoeuvres have proved that good feeling exists between the people and the army. As for dictatorship, no one thinks of such a thing. Dictators are the offspring of circumstances.

"For myself I may say this: I have never thought of being a dictator, nor do I now. Nevertheless, if my aid were asked at a moment of gravity I do not know how I should decide between my political and military duties, but I should always incline toward the latter."

Loud and prolonged uproar interrupted the Minister of War, and several of his Ministerial colleagues were unable to restrain expressions of surprise at his words.

"I am a politician and a Liberal," General Weyler resumed, "but before all I am a soldier, and, if it should become necessary, I will defend our institutions and Parliament."

General Weyler's speech largely occupies public attention, in view of the possibility that he may become Premier if Senor Sagasta, whose health is indifferent, should find it necessary to retire.

El Pais asserts that Senor Sagasta will shortly resign the Premiership, owing to ill health.

El Imparcial remarks that "a dark cloud enshrouds General Weyler since the debate."

TO RAISE NO WHEAT IN 1902.

A Kansas Scheme to Raise the Price of the Grain Next Year.

Independence, Kan. — A gigantic scheme is materializing in Southern Kansas to run the price of wheat up next year. It is original with B. H. Giger and other wheat raisers here, and is to include all the farmers of the wheat belt of the country.

Every farmer is to sign an agreement not to raise an acre of wheat in 1902, and thus force the price of wheat. Each township will be organized, then the counties and later the States. Each farmer will contribute $1 toward advancing the cause when he signs the agreement. There is said to be no politics in this proposed organization which is spreading rapidly.

SENATOR JONES A REPUBLICAN.

He Announces His Return to the Party—Says Silver Issue is Dead.

Reno, Nev. — United States Senator John P. Jones, of Nevada, has made the announcement to his friends that he has returned to the Republican party.

"I have suffered no change in any of the convictions I have entertained in the past," said the Senator. "I am as sincere a believer in bimetallism as when I left the Republican party. The enormous output of gold has accomplished what bimetallism would have accomplished. The silver issue is dead. I have always acted with the Republican party upon every question but silver."

Minister Commits Suicide.

The Rev. Otto F. Lenk, aged twenty-five, pastor of St. John's German Lutheran Church, at Cullman, Ala., died from a bullet wound just over his heart, inflicted by a pistol in his own hand. It is supposed the death of Miss Minnie Hartung, to whom the minister was said to be engaged, was the cause of the suicide.

Crowninshield's New Post.

Secretary Long, at Washington, announced that Rear-Admiral A. S. Crowninshield, Chief of the Navigation Bureau at present, would be detached from that position and take command of the European squadron next March, being relieved of his present duties by Rear-Admiral Henry C. Taylor.

Kill Twenty-Five Filipinos.

KING EDWARD HAS CANCER

The Alarming Announcement Concerning England's Monarch.

THREE OPERATIONS ON THROAT

They Have Taken Place Since the King's Accession, and One But Recently — Only Temporary Relief Afforded, and Serious Developments Are Expected—Report Comes From Reliable Source.

London. — Reynold's Weekly Newspaper is the first British publication to assert that King Edward actually is suffering from cancer of the throat. It declares that since His Majesty's accession three operations have been performed for the removal of papilloma on the left vocal chord, and that one was removed from the right vocal chord last week.

"Assistance was hastily summoned," says this journal, "as His Majesty was breathing with difficulty, and an immediate operation was performed. But it was regarded as only a temporary relief, the injured epithelium now having become a cancerous growth, and serious developments are expected."

Several times since King Edward ascended the throne rumors have been circulated that the ruler was suffering with cancer, but on each occasion a denial has been entered. The continued activity of the King and his frequent appearance in public have done much to discredit rumors of this sort. Cancer has not been unknown in the King's family, for it was the cause of the death recently of his sister, the Empress Frederick of Germany, mother of the German Emperor.

Reynolds's Weekly Newspaper is one of the Radical publications of London. It has been strongly opposed to the Government and a supporter of the Boers. Still its reputation, purely as a newspaper, is good, and it frequently has been correct in its announcements of importance.

POWERS AGAIN CONVICTED.

He is Sentenced to Life Imprisonment For His Part in Goebel Murder.

Georgetown, Ky.—Caleb Powers, former Secretary of State, was again convicted of being accessory before the fact to the murder of Governor William Goebel in January, 1900, and for the second time has been sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Powers sat pale and motionless when the verdict was announced by the foreman, B. S. Calvert, his old schoolmate. Opposite Powers, on the other side of the courtroom with the attorneys, sat Arthur Goebel, brother of the late Governor, with his eyes fixed on the prisoner.

The attorneys of Powers shook his hand, expressing aloud their belief in his innocence. Women crowded around Powers, embracing and kissing him, and tears were shed.

A motion for a new trial was overruled. The case will be appealed. The sentence was read and judgment suspended pending the decision of the higher tribunal. Powers was taken to Frankfort and committed to jail without bail.

NEGRO BURNED BY A MOB.

Made No Outcry, and Said He Deserved His Fate.

Balltown, La.—The negro, Bill Morris, who assaulted Mrs. John Ball, was burned at the stake. After being captured he made an effort to implicate others, but they proved their innocence.

Morris was taken to the scene of his crime and chained to a pine sapling. He made no resistance and said he deserved his fate. He made no outcry when the flames reached him.

Morris beat his victim on the head with a pine knot, and thought he had killed her. Going back to Ball's store he took all the change in the cash drawer. Mrs. Ball, however, recovered consciousness and crawled to her father-in-law's house. He at once gave the alarm, and the negro was found at his home, four miles from the scene of the tragedy.

TOWN ALMOST WIPED OUT.

A Destructive Fire in Delmar, Del., Makes 250 Lives Homeless.

Laurel, Del. — Delmar, a town of about 1000 inhabitants, was almost wiped out by fire. Nearly 250 people are homeless, and the property loss is estimated at about $100,000.

Owing to the poor facilities for fighting the flames, the fire was soon beyond control of the local Fire Department, and aid had to be asked of Salisbury, Md., a short distance away.

The postoffice was destroyed, but the mails were saved. About fifty families lost their entire possessions. Only two stores are left, and nearly half of the dwelling houses were burned.

Air Test on Submarine Boat.

A second submarine boat was tested at Barrow, England. Six men were sealed in the boat for twelve hours. The air remained fresh.

Czolgosz Renounced Anarchy.

Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley, repented, renounced Anarchy and re-embraced the Catholic faith.

VOTE the straight Republican ticket.

JOHN A. STEEL for sheriff, C. K. Horton for director of the poor, H. H. Swope for county surveyor, Dr. George G. Harman for coroner. Where could better men be found for the positions? Vote the straight ticket.

DEFAMATION is a weapon anybody can use. Nor does it require to be bolstered up by facts. The citizen, however, who permits himself to be influenced by unsupported denunciations is a very credulous and a very foolish person.

THE Republicans of Huntingdon county never had a better ticket presented for their suffrage than they have this year. Every man on it is a gentleman and has the reputation of being strictly honest and honorable Vote the straight ticket.

BEFORE another issue of the ITEM appears the first general election of the new century will have been held. As is the custom our Democratic cotemporaries are using the most specious arguments to convince Republicans that the only salvation of the country is in voting the Democratic ticket. But there is really no Democratic state ticket in the field in Pennsylvania. That which masquerades under that title this year is a hybrid made up of one Democrat and a demogogic Republican. The people are asked to give a generous support to this mule ticket but so far the appeal has not aroused much enthusiasm. Certain papers and disappointed office-seekers, claiming to be Republican, are giving aid to this coalition. They charge the Republican party with having squandered the public money, increased taxation and enacted unjust laws. These charges have become stale. It does not require a recital of ancient history to demonstrate the falsity of such charges. Let us see.

Has the Republican party squandered the public money? One need not go back very far into the past to recall a time under a Democratic administration when bonds had to be issued to maintain a reserve in the treasury. It is not so now. The national treasury is overflowing with wealth and the bonds issued by a Democratic administration are being paid with the surplus accumulated and accumulating under a Republican administration. In our own state where this charge is made the statement of the state treasurer for October shows over eight million dollars in the treasury. More than this. Heretofore the school appropriations have not all been paid until in March or April of the succeeding year. Last week, or five months before the usual time, the last district received its share of the school appropriation for 1901. If such management can be termed wastefulness we need more of it.

Has the Republican party increased taxation? Under a Democratic administration in Pennsylvania horses, cows, plows. carts, watches and almost everything else were taxed and at the same time the debt of the state exceeded forty million dollars. Under the Republican management no man, except those having money at interest. pays a cent of state taxes, and besides the state pays the greater part of the expenses of maintaining the schools in every district. And that is the way the Republican party has increased taxation. A sane man ought to be ashamed to make such a charge.

Has the Republican party enacted unjust laws? If these laws brought about an overflowing treasury, have reduced the burdens of the people and have given us the great prosperity we are now enjoying, it is idle to speak of them as unjust laws. Will an honest man make such a charge?

Vote the straight Republican ticket and rebuke the designers of such a campaign.

THREE SPRINGS.

Game through this section is unusually scarce.

Simon Locke and wife, of Locke's valley, are visiting friends and relatives at this place.

Our public school, under the direction of Prof. M. W. Wright, is moving along in the right direction.

Edgar B. Stevens succeeded in bagging two fine turkeys on Saturday. Jacob C. Montgomery brought the first one to town this season.

Mrs. Charlotte Hudson, who has been confined to her room for several weeks, is still unable to be about. We wish for her speedy recovery.

Mrs. Laura Edwards, formerly of this place but now of Pittsburg, Pa., is visiting at the residence of her father, W. H. Heck. Her many friends were glad to see her.

W. H. Heck, who was confined to his room with chronic inflammation of the liver and an enlarged spleen, is able to get out again, which fact we are glad to note.

W. C. No. 512, P. O. S. of A., Three Springs, intends holding an oyster supper, Saturday, November 9th, at their hall in this place. Special arrangements will be made and a general good time is anticipated.

Mrs. Amy Cutshall, of Hudson street, expects to close up her residence in a few days for the winter. She is going to visit Mrs. Lillie Miller, her niece, where she expects to remain until spring. We wish her a pleasant time during her absence from home.

Mrs. T. A. Weight celebrated her birthday anniversary last Sunday. She has passed the 42nd milestone in life. She received a very handsome set of dishes from her husband as a birthday present. Her daughter, Elsie, prepared an elaborate dinner, which was served on the new ware.

On last Saturday evening the following members of Fort Littleton Lodge, I. O. O. F., were guests of Three Springs Lodge, No. 790: Jacob Miller, Emanuel Locke, Nay Locke, —— Yeater, Clell Cissney, H. R. Locke, Dison Fraker, Dan Cramer, B. H. Shaw, Wesley Fraker, Martin Mathias, Scott Hershey, and Judge Buckley. When the hour of meeting arrived they were escorted to the hall by the members of Three Springs Lodge, where the evening was spent in a profitable and pleasant manner. The visiting members were warmly greeted by Three Springs Lodge. After lodge adjourned the visitors were escorted to the G. A. R. hall where arrangements had been made for supper. The visit was one of pleasure for our own boys and we hope one of enjoyment for the visiting members. We hope to again in the future be honored with a visit from our friends, who are always welcome.

Should you receive a copy of the ITEM this week and in glancing through its columns you don't find news which you think should be there, it may be due to you for not reporting it either to your local correspondent or to the chief editor of the paper. Your local correspondents will be pleased to receive any and all news that you are willing to furnish them that will help make the paper interesting to its readers. It is impossible for them to get all the news unless aided by some of their friends. A good newspaper is kept up by contributions from different localities by people who are willing to contribute all the news and in doing it help make a paper interesting for themselves and for others. The ITEM is endeavoring to inaugurate a corps of regular correspondents in the different localities and you can aid them materially by handing your slips to the local reporter.

Some of our contemporaries are very active in trying to create strife in the ranks of the Republican party for the sole purpose of defeating some of the regular nominees on the Republican ticket and encouraging fusion, calling it reform. We wonder what the outcome of this reform movement will be. We are taught that charity begins at home and we believe that the first move should be the reformation of ourselves. If because there are some people who belong to the Republican party are not what they should be, is that any reason why we should try and break up the party? If such would be the case there would soon be no parties as you will find just such things in all of the different parties and you would soon have no place or party to which you could go and you would simply be where Moses was when the light went out—in darkness. If our contemporaries would do as much toward harmonizing the party we would obtain better results. We see no reason why any Republican should cut his ticket this fall.

LATTA GROVE.

Last Friday Jack Dell had a corn husking and got a good lot of his corn husked.

Frank Stever has been on the sick list a few days but is better at this writing.

L. E. Dell is having his house painted which adds much to the appearance of the same.

Elmer Bowman killed a 24-pound gobbler and J. H. Stever killed a 12-pound turkey hen.

Ceorge D. Lynn built a wall under R. P. Smith's kitchen last week and is now working on the sawmill.

Isaac Dell had 172 bushels of buckwheat and M. D. Walker had 117 bushels on M. E. Dell's farm.

George L. Smith was to Altoona last Sunday to see his son, Lafayette, who is seriously ill with typhus fever.

E. E. Querry, of Altoona, is driving M. E. Dell's team for a few days while Mr. Dell is working at his corn.

H. B. Pheasant, of Smith valley, is nursing a very sore finger which he cut with his penknife a few days ago.

Latta Grove had a lady representative at the G. A. R. hard tack supper at Three Springs last Saturday night.

Mr. Greenland, of Saltillo, while working at Kimmel's sawmill, got his finger mashed and will not be able to work for some time.

Miss Alice Dell, of Huntingdon, accompanied by a lady friend, drove to Latta Grove last Sunday to hear Rev. Eminhizer preach.

CASS TOWNSHIP.

Miss Beulah Smith spent Saturday and Sunday with her friend, Miss Myrtle Wright, in Mapleton.

Mrs. W. W. Crotsley, formerly the widow of John Kean, a veteran of the civil war, has had her pension of $12 per month restored.

H. C. Lane, a student at West Penn Medical College, Pittsburg, who will finish his course in May, 1902, spent a few days of last week with his father-in-law, R. P. Smith.

John W. Baith, of Altoona, has purchased the farm belonging to the widow of W. W. Crotsley together with the stock and farm implements and will move on the same in the near future.

Skunks are so numerous in the upper end of Smith valley that the ladies of that section have organized a club to exterminate them. They solicit the aid of the male persuasion in their daring undertaking. Thus far one has been captured.

It Happened in a Drug Store.

"One day last winter a lady came to my drug store and asked for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock," says Mr. C. R. Grandin, the popular druggist of Ontario, N. Y. "She was disappointed and wanted to know what cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her that I could freely recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and after giving it a fair trial if she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." It is for sale by J. G. Gillam.

AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION PROPOSED TO THE CITIZENS OF THIS COMMONWEALTH FOR THEIR APPROVAL OR REJECTION BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, PUBLISHED BY ORDER OF THE SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH, IN PURSUANCE OF ARTICLE XVIII OF THE CONSTITUTION.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth in General Assembly met, That the following is proposed as amendments to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof:

Amendment One to Article Eight. Section One.

Add at the end of the first paragraph of said section, after the words "shall be entitled to vote at all elections," the words "subject however to such laws requiring and regulating the registration of electors as the General Assembly may enact," so that the said section shall read as follows:

Section 1. Qualifications of Electors. Every male citizen twenty-one years of age, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all elections, subject however to such laws requiring and regulating the registration of electors as the General Assembly may enact:

1. He shall have been a citizen of the United States at least one month.

2. He shall have resided in the State one year (or, having previously been a qualified elector or native born citizen of the State, he shall have removed therefrom and returned, then six months,) immediately preceding the election.

3. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least two months immediately preceding the election.

4. If twenty-two years of age and upwards, he shall have paid within two years a State or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least two months and paid at least one month before the election.

Amendment Two to Article Eight, Section Seven.

Strike out from said section the words "but no elector shall be deprived of the privilege of voting by reason of his name not being registered," and add to said section the following words, "but laws regulating and requiring the registration of electors may be enacted to apply to cities only, provided that such laws be uniform for cities of the same class," so that the said section shall read as follows:

Section 7. Uniformity of Election Laws.—All laws regulating the holding of elections by the citizens or for the registration of electors shall be uniform throughout the State, but laws regulating and requiring the registration of electors may be enacted to apply to cities only, provided that such laws be uniform for cities of the same class.

TROUGH CREEK.

Denny Swope and Newton Smith are still with us.

The ground is the dryest and the waters the lowest they have been this summer.

Mr. Easter and wife were recent visitors in the valley, mainly to visit the latters father, R. Chilcott.

G. W. Hazzard and wife, E. B. Greenland and family and Harry Greenland and family, of Altoona, were visitors in the valley since the hunting season came in.

Robert Chilcott and wife, of Kansas, were visiting some of the old tramping ground of Mr. C.'s father, Elihu Chilcott, the latter part of last week and the first of this week.

A fire at Bowman & Steel's sawmill last Thursday night burned the slab pile and but for the timely assistance that came to hand the entire plant would have been destroyed.

Rev. McClain will have quarterly meeting at Harmony chapel next Saturday and Sunday. The reverend is an acceptable preacher and a pleasant gentleman outside of the pulpit, hence his popularity.

We have always felt it our duty, as a correspondent, and citizen as well, to call the attention of supervisors to bad or dangerous places in the roads where we thought the supervisors did not know of. We would call the attention of the supervisor of the east side to two ugly holes near the head of the Quinter lane. It is impossible to get along without getting into one or the other and they are bad.

We are glad that a literary society has been organized at Pine Grove. They met last Friday night for the first time and the meeting was a success, so admitted by those present. The Pine Grove Star, a paper published by the society, will, we trust, be of much interest and will be continued if the sweet potatoes, pumpkins and cucumbers continue to come in on subscription hold out, and we hope they will.

D. K. Coder seems to be the lucky hunter so far. He and his son, Coy, killed six turkeys the first week of the season. This was Coy's introduction in the turkey line. D. K. killed three last week and said to the writer that he would rest awhile. As he is a law abiding citizen we suppose he did rest over Sunday. He had the goodness of soul to call in your correspondent to help away with one of them for which he feels very grateful.

Tot Causes Night Alarm,

"One night my brother's baby was taken with Croup," writes Mrs. J. C. Snider, of Crittenden, Ky. "It seemed it would strangle before we could get a doctor, so we gave it Dr. King's New Discovery which gave quick relief and permanently cured it. We always keep it in the house to protect our children from Croup and Whooping Cough. It cured me of a chronic bronchial trouble that no other remedy would relieve." Infallible for Coughs, Colds, Throat and Lung troubles. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at W. H. Spangler's store.

CALVIN.

Amos Beaty made a visit to Smith valley on Monday.

Mrs. Cora Cree made a business trip to the county capital last week.

Duncan & Wills are setting their little mill in the little mill hollow west of this place.

Quarterly meeting services at Harmony chapel over next Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Catharine Agnew, of Altoona, is visiting friends and old-time acquaintances here.

Hogs are beginning to die in this vicinity from a disease known as lead cholera. It affects the head.

The writer thinks that he has never seen such an unpromising outlook for a grain crop as at this season of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Pheasant have been visiting friends and relatives in Altoona for the past eight or ten days.

Mrs. Clara Johnston and sons will move their household effects to Williamsburg, Blair county, next Tuesday, November 6th.

Shaffer & Bowman wish to express their thanks to their many friends and neighbors for the timely and generous help in saving their steam sawmill from fire last Thursday night.

Jacob Bumgardner was in Mapleton last Saturday on business. He reports the new wagon road made by the P. R. R. company along the Quinter farm quite an improvement over the old one.

It is reported that the conduct of some of our young people at the Pine Grove literary entertainment last Friday night was very unbecoming and much out of place. We hope it may be better hereafter.

Jacob David has sold his house and lot to Amos L. Smith and moved his family and household effects to Huntingdon on Tuesday. We are very loathe to have them leave our community as they are among our oldest and most respected citizens.

TODD.

Local institute at Beavertown school next Saturday afternoon.

Frank Scott, wife and little son are visiting friends and relatives in the valley.

Miss Jane McNerlin has rented her farm and has moved to the little house at Martin McNeal's.

Emerson French, who has been sick in Turtle Creek, is improving and hopes to be able to come home in a short time.

There was a mistake in the items last week in regard to Mr. J. A. Cook's sale, as it was his horse he sold instead of his house.

John Stapleton, of Tyrone, is visiting at the home of his mother, Mrs. Sarah Stapleton. John expects to do some hunting too while in the valley.

Isaac Querry, of Hare's valley, and John Kyler, of Grapeville, Westmoreland county, spent Sunday at the home of their uncle, Mr. Oliver Curfman.

Miss Mary Curfman, who has been quite ill at Colorado Springs, has so much improved that she came as far as Pittsburg last week on her way home in the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Curfman spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of her brother, George Elias. Mrs. K. E. Bookwalter and Mrs. E. V. Wells, of Philipsburg, spent last week there and we were very much surprised to learn that when they returned home Monday morning their mother, Mrs. Ann Elias, went with them to spend the winter in Philipsburg. We did not think aunt Ann would risk another trip across the mountain at her age in life.

Do you suffer from piles? If so do not turn to surgery for relief. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will act more quickly, surely and safely, saving you the expense and danger of an operation. W. H. Spangler.

These Are Busy Days

In this big Store, but it does not just happen so. It's the result of months of careful planning and buying, and all with your interests in mind.

The Coat Department is meeting with greatest approval. A careful inspection of the Philadelphia and New York steres shows that our Cloaks were well selected and are the correct styles. There are over a thousand garments to select from, and all new and fresh. We've everything one could want in Cloaks for Ladies, Misses, Children and Infants.

Ladies' Jackets and Automobiles in 27-inch and 42-inch lengths are most popular, while many full-length Raglans and half-tight-fitting Coats will be worn. Our stock embraces fine examples of all these styles.

Full-length Coats and Raglans are $12.50 to $26; 42-inch Automobiles are $10 to $25, and the 27-inch Coats are $4 to $20 each.

Children's Jackets are $1.25 to $15.00.

Our special value Plush Capes run from $3.50 to $12.00. Each garment unsurpassed at its price.

Furs run from $1.00 to $40.00 each and there are hundreds to choose from. Our Furs are carefully selected and every piece is guaranteed.

As a rule people not in business know little about furs, and most trust to the honor of the merchant. If one of our furs should be unsatisfactory, you run no risk.

New Dress Goods and Silks are coming in all the time. There is not a seasonable want that cannot be satisfied here, and at an economical price.

Blankets, Haps, Underwear, Hosiery, Gloves, Petticoats, Horrel Skirts, Silk Waists, Velvet Waists, Sateen and Flannel Waists all call for especial attention just now.

Every department is overflowing with new things. It will pay you to come often to the store. If you cannot come, write.

DR. TALMAGE'S SERMON

SUNDAY'S DISCOURSE BY THE NOTED DIVINE.

Subject: The Sweet Influences—We Are Affected For Good or Evil By Forces That We Seldom Recognize—Importance of Good Actions.

[Copyright, 1901.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage demonstrates that we are affected by forces that we seldom recognize and enlarges upon human accountability. The text is Job xxxviii, 31, "Canst thou bind the sweet influences of Pleiades?"

What is the meaning of that question which God put to Job? Have we all our lives been reading it, and are most of us ignorant of its beauty and power and practical suggestiveness? A meaningless passage of Scripture many thought it to be, but the telescopes were busy age after age, and astronomical observations kept on questioning the skies until the meaning of my text comes out lustrously. The Pleiades is a constellation of seven stars appearing to the naked eye, but scientific instruments reveal more than 400 properly belonging to the group. Alcyone is the name of the brightest star of that group called the Pleiades. A Russian astronomer observed that Alcyone is the centre of gravitation of our solar system. Hugh Macmillan says that the sun and its planets wheel around that centre at the rate of 422,000 miles a day in an orbit which it will take 19,000,000 years to complete. The Pleiades appear in the springtime and are associated with flowers and genial warmth and good weather. The navigation of the Mediterranean was from May to November, the rising and the setting of the Pleiades. The priests of Belus noticed that rising and setting 2000 years before Christ.

Now, the glorious meaning of my text is plain as well as radiant. To give Job the beautiful grace of humility God asked him, "Canst thou bind the sweet influences of the Pleiades?" Have you any power over the laws of gravitation? Can you modify or change an influence wielded by a star more than 400,000 miles away? Can you control the winds of the springtime? Can you call out the flowers? How little you know compared with omniscience? How little you can do compared with omnipotence!

The probability is that Job had been tempted to arrogance by his vast attainments. He was a metallurgist, a zoologist, a poet, and shows by his writings he had knowledge of hunting, of music, of husbandry, of medicine, of mining, of astronomy and perhaps was so far ahead of the scholars and scientists of his time that he may have been somewhat puffed up; hence this interrogation of my text. And there is nothing that so soon takes down human pride as an interrogation point rightly thrust. Christ used it mightily. Paul mounted the parapet of his great arguments with such a battery. Men of the world understand it. Demosthenes began his speech to the crown and Cicero his oration against Catiline and Lord Chatham his most famous orations with a question. The empire of ignorance is so much vaster than the empire of knowledge that after the most learned and elaborate disquisition upon any subject of sociology or theology the plainest man may ask a question that will make the wisest speechless. After the profoundest assault upon Christianity the humblest disciple may make an inquiry that would silence a Voltaire.

Called upon, as we all are at times, to defend our holy religion, instead of argument that can always be answered by argument let us try the power of interrogation. We ought to be loaded with at least half a dozen questions and always ready, and when Christianity is assailed, and we are told there is nothing in it and there is no God and there never was a miracle and that the Scriptures are unreasonable and cruel and that there never will be a judgment day, take out of your portable armory of interrogation something like this: What makes the condition of woman in Christian lands better than in heathen lands? Do you think it would be kind in God to turn the human race into a world without any written revelation to explain and encourage and elevate and save? And if a revelation was made, which do you prefer—the Zenda-Vesta of the Persian or the Confucian writings of the Chinese or the Koran of Mohammed or our Bible?

If Christ is not a divine being, what did He mean when He said, "Before Abram was, I am?" If the Bible is a bad book, what are the evil results of reading it? Did you see any degrading influence of the book in your father or mother or sister who used to read it?

Do you not think that a judgment day is necessary in order to explain and fix up things that were never explained or fixed up? If our religion is illogical and an imposition upon human credulity, why were Herschel and Washington and Gladstone and William McKinley its advocates?

How did it happen that our religion furnished the theme for the greatest poem ever written, "Paradise Lost," and to the painters their greatest themes in the "Adoration of the Magi," "The Transfiguration," "The Last Supper," "The Crucifixion," "The Entombment," "The Last Judgment," and that all the schools of painting put forth their utmost genius in presenting "The Madonna?"

Why was it that William Shakespeare after amazing the world as he will amaze the centuries with the splendor and power of "The Merchant of Venice," and "Coriolanus," and "Richard III.," and "King Lear," and "Othello," and "Macbeth," and "Hamlet" wrote with his own hand his last will and testament, beginning it with the words: "In the name of God, amen! I, William Shakespeare, of Stratford-on-Avon, in the County of Warwick, in perfect health and memory (God be praised!) do make and ordain this my last will and testament, through the only merits of Jesus Christ, my Saviour, to be made partaker of life everlasting and my body to the earth whereof it is made?" Had Shakespeare lost his reason when he wrote his faith in Christ and the great atonement? Put your antagonist a few questions like that, and you will find him excusing himself for an engagement he must meet immediately.

These words also recognize far-reaching influences. Job probably had no adequate idea of the distance of the worlds mentioned from our world, but he knew them to be far off, and we, who have had the advantage of modern sidereal investigation, ought to be still more impressed than was Job with the question of the text, as it puts before us the fact that worlds hundreds of thousands of miles distant have a grip on our world. There are sweet influences which hold us from afar. There may have been in our ancestral line perhaps 200 years ago some consecrated man or woman who has held over all the generations since an influence for good which we have no power to realize, and we in turn by our virtue or vice may influence those who shall live 200 years from now. Moral gravitation is as powerful as material gravitation, and if, as my text teaches and science confirms, the Pleiades, which are millions of miles from our earth, influence the earth we ought to be impressed with how we may be influenced by others far away back and how we may influence others far down the future. That rill away up among the Alleghanies, so thin you think it will hardly find its way down the rocks, becomes the mighty Ohio, rolling into the Mississippi and rolling into the sea. That word you utter, that deed you do, may augment itself as the years go by until rivers cease to roll and the ocean itself shall be dried up in the burning of the world. Paul, who was all the time saying important things, said nothing more startlingly suggestive than when he declared, "None of us liveth or dieth to himself." Words, thoughts, actions, have an eternity of flight.

As Job could not bind the sweet influences of the Seven Stars, as they were called, so we cannot arrest or turn aside the good projected long ago. Those influences were started centuries before our cradle was rocked and will reign centuries after our graves are dug. Oh, it is a tremendous thing to live! God help us to live aright.

Astronomers can easily locate the Pleiades. They will take you into their observatories on a clear night and aim their revealing instrument toward the part in the heavens where those seven stars have their habitude, and they will point to the constellation Taurus, and you can see for yourself. But it is impossible to point to influences far back that have affected our character and will affect our destiny. We know the influences near by—paternal, maternal, conjugal—but by the time we have gone back two generations, or, at most, three, our investigations falter and fail. Through the modern, interesting habit of searching back to find the ancestral tree we may find a long list of names, but they are only names. The consecration or abandonment of some one 200 years ago was not recorded. It would not be so important if you and I, by our good or bad behavior, blessed or blasted only those immediately around us, but our goodness or our badness will reach as far as the strongest ray of Alcyone—yea, across the eternity. Under this consideration, what do you think of those who give themselves up to frivolity or idleness and throw away fifty years of their existence as though they were shells or pebbles or pods instead of embyro eternities?

When the heirs of a vast estate in England wished to establish their claim to property worth $100,000,000 they offered a reward of $500 for the recovery of an old Bible, the family record of which contained the evidence requisite. But any Bible, new or old, can help us to a vaster inheritance than the one spoken of, one that never fades away.

The sweet influences of the heavenly world, which many wise men thought for a long while was Alcyone, the centre of the constellation of the Pleiades—world of our future residence, as we hope; world of chorus and illumination; world of reunion; world where we shall be everlastingly complete; world where our old faculties will be itensified and quickened and new faculties implanted; world of high association with Christ, through whose grace we got there at all, and apostles and poets, Habakkuk, and St. John of Patmos, and Edward Young, his "Night Thoughts" turned into eternal day; and Horatius Bonar of modern hymnology, and Hannah More, and Mrs. Hemans, and Mrs. Sigourney, who struck their harps till nations listened; and David, the victor over Goliath with what seemed insufficient weapons; and Joshua of the prolonged day in Gibeon, and Havelock, the evangelist hero, and those thousands of men of the sword who fought on the right side. What company to move in! What guests to entertain! What personages to visit! What choirs to chant! What banquets with lifted chalice filled with "the new wine of the kingdom!" What victories to celebrate!

The stories of that world and its holy hilarities come in upon our souls sometimes in song, sometimes in sermon, sometimes in hours of solitary reflection, and they are, to use the words of my text, sweet influences. But there is one star that affects us more with its sweet influences than the centre star, the Alcyone of the Pleiades, and that is what one Bible author calls the Star of Jacob and another Bible author calls the Morning Star. Of all the sweet influences that have ever touched our earth those that radiate from Christ are the sweetest. Born an Asiatic villager, in a mechanic's home, living more among hammers and saws and planes than among books, yet at twelve years of age confounding robed ecclesiastics and starting out a mission under which those born without optic nerve took in the clear daylight and those afflicted with unresponsive tympanum were made to hear and those almost doubled up with deformities were straightened into graceful poise and the leprous became rubicund and the widow's only son exchanged the bier on which he lay lifeless for the arms of his overjoyed mother and pronouncing nine benedictions on the Mount of Beatitudes and doing deeds and speaking words which are filling the centuries with sweet influences.

Christ started every ambulance, kindled every electric ray, spread every soft hospital pillow and introduced all the alleviations and pacifications and rescues and mercies of all time.

He was the loveliest being that ever trod our earth—more beauty in His eyes, more tenderness in His manner, more gentleness in His footsteps, more music in His voice, more dignity in His brow, more gracefulness in the locks that rolled upon His shoulders, more compassion in His soul.

Sweet influences of the Holy Ghost, with all His transforming and comforting and emancipating power. When that power is fully felt there will be no more sins to pardon, and no more errors to correct, and no more sorrows to comfort, and no more bondage to break. But as the old-time ship captains watched the rising of the Pleiades for safe navigation and set sail in Mediterranean waters, but were sure to get back into port before the constellation Orion came into sight—the season of cyclone and hurricane—so there is a time to sail for heaven, and that is while the sweet influences are upon us and before the storms overtake and delay. Open all your soul to the light and warmth and comfort and inspiration of that gospel which has already peopled heaven with millions of the ransomed and is helping other millions to that glorious destination. Do not postpone the things of God and eternity until the storms of life swoop and the agitations of a great future are upon us. Do not dare wait until Orion takes the place of the Pleiades. Weigh anchor now and with chart unrolled and pilot on board head for the reunions and raptures that await all the souls forgiven. "And they need no candle, neither light nor the sun, for the Lord God giveth them light, and they shall reign forever and ever."

THE SABBATH SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR NOVEMBER 3.

Subject: Death of Joseph, Gen. l., 15-26—Golden Text, Psa. xc., 12 — Memory Verses, 18-21 — Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

Let us study carefully the intervening history. 1. Joseph sending for his father, 45: 17-28. Pharaoh and his servants were well pleased when they knew that Joseph's brethren had come. The king joins with Joseph in sending for Jacob and his family. Great provisions were made for their journey. At first Jacob's heart fainted, for the news seemed too good to be true, but when he saw the wagons and the "good things of Egypt" that Joseph had sent he believed and his spirit revived.

2. The journey to Egypt. 46: 1-27. "Immediately the whole family prepared to move to Egypt with their flocks and movable property. The journey was about 250 miles along the usual caravan route, but it was a long, hard journey for an old man, with women and children, and flocks and herds. When they reached Beer-sheba God sent Jacob a vision for his encouragement, confirming the ancient promises and bidding him go on to Egypt. Little could Jacob see the real importance of this journey, but it was one of the links in the chain of divine providence through which the promises were to be fulfilled." The number of Jacob's children that went down into Egypt, including his sons' wives, was seventy-five. Acts 7: 14.

3. The meeting of Jacob and Joseph. 46: 28-34. When Jacob reached the land of Goshen Joseph went forth in his chariot to meet his father. Joseph fell on his father's neck "and wept on his neck a good while." It had been nearly twenty-three years since Joseph had left his father to go to Shechem.

4. The meeting of Jacob and Pharaoh. 47: 1-10. "First Joseph selected five of his brethren and introduced them to Pharaoh, who welcomed them, and bade Joseph give official positions to any who proved themselves men of activity, energy and ability. Then Joseph introduced his father to the king. Here Joseph shows the nobleness of his character in not being ashamed of his father." Jacob's account of his life to Pharaoh is very touching. Sin and sorrow had weighed him down and was bringing him to an early old age.

5. Jacob blessing his sons. Chapters 48, 49. The time was approaching when Jacob knew he must die; he is sick and nearly blind. Joseph took his two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim, to his father, who blessed them. "In this scene we need but notice the prophetic adoption of Ephraim and Manesseh as his own sons and heads of tribes, and the giving of the chief blessing to Ephraim, the younger." Ephraim became the leading tribe next to Judah. Just before his death Jacob prophesied concerning his sons and pronounced blessings upon them.

6. Jacob's death and burial. 49: 29 to 50: 14. Jacob was 147 years of age when he died. Before his death he secured a solemn pledge from Joseph that he would bury him in Egypt (47: 29-31), and later he charged them to bury him in the cave where Abraham and Isaac were buried. These instructions were carefully carried out. At this time Joseph revisits the scenes of his boyhood, after an absence of forty years.

15. "Saw their father was dead." This at once argues both a sense of guilt in their own consciences and a want of confidence in their brother.

16. "Thy father did command." Although this is not recorded elsewhere it was undoubtedly true. They had probably asked their father to help them in their trouble. Jacob must have advised them to humble themselves before their brother and obtain a fresh assurance of his forgiveness.

17. "Forgive," etc. These words were wonderfully well chosen, and were spoken in a way to appeal in the most forcible manner to Joseph's piety and filial affection. They cast themselves wholly on his mercy. "Joseph wept." How touching! He wept out of sympathy with their deep sorrow of many years which nothing but forgiveness and reconciliation could alleviate.

18. "Fell down." Thus again and again do we see the fulfilment of Joseph's dreams in a remarkable manner. 37: 5-8.

19. "In the place of God." I have forgiven you and the matter is now between you and God. I am not your judge to punish you.

20. "Ye meant evil" (R. V.) And what they did was just as wicked as though the results had been disastrous. They intended it for evil, and God judges according to the motive which prompts the act. "God meant it for good" (R. V.). God overruled their wickedness and made it work out good. This fact would comfort them, for it would be a great relief to know that the injury to Joseph which they had intended had been averted.

22. "Dwelt in Egypt." He continued in Egypt until the time of his death, which was fifty-four years after the death of his father. "His father's house." All the descendants of Jacob remained in Egypt 144 years after the death of Joseph. They came to Egypt seventy-one years before his death, which makes the entire time in Egypt 215 years. "An hundred and ten years." He was seventeen years old when he came to Egypt, thirteen years were spent in slavery and prison and eighty years on the throne; for it is probable that he retained his high office to the close of his life.

23. "Upon Joseph's knees." They were educated by him, or under his direction; his sons and their children continued to acknowledge him as patriarch, or head of the family, as long as he lived.

24. "Will surely visit you." Joseph had unbounded confidence in the promises made to his ancestors. The Egyptian throne had not weaned his affections from the true God. He died in the "full assurance of faith." "Bring you out." Though we have everything that can make life comfortable, yet this is not the land given by covenant, the land which represents the rest that remains for the people of God.

25. "Carry up my bones." "That I may finally rest with my ancestors in the land which God gave to Abraham, and which is a pledge as it is a type of the kingdom of heaven." See Heb. 11: 22. Joseph's request was granted. When Moses departed from Egypt he took Joseph's body (Ex. 13. 19), and Joshua buried him in Shechem. Josh. 24: 32.

26. "They embalmed him." The Egyptians had special physicians for each disease, the embalmers formed a class by themselves. "In a coffin." Coffins were not universally used in Egypt, and were only used for persons of eminence and distinction. Joseph was put, as the duty of the embalmers, in a chest of wood, such as may be seen in our museums to this day. Others think Joseph's coffin was of stone.

Advertising Space Sold.

The little Dutch municipality of Leyden has an eye to business, and manages all the public advertising, making a handsome sum out of the sale of space to advertisers. A part of its object in doing this is to rid the city of the numerous ugly sign and bill boards which are so common in American cities. The authorities will not permit their picturesque canal-cut streets to be marred by inartistic signs or advertisements. To further this plan the city erects at the principal corners and by the canal bridges boards of neat and attractive designs for all public notices. A projecting top prevents the rain from tearing or washing away the bills. The boards are surmounted by ornamental woodwork, and the advertising is thus not only kept in bounds, but is made as nearly artistic as possible.—Minneapolis Journal and Engineer.

Hop Picking a Big Industry.

A London correspondent writes that the railway officials who have been superintending the departure of hop pickers from the city state that the contingents departing by the night service of trains have been numerically stronger than for many years past. It is calculated that within the eight or nine days previous to the opening of the season some 50,000 hoppers of both sexes and of all ages have availed themselves of the railway facilities provided by the railway system tapping the Kentish hop districts.

A Dog's Mixed Family.

Peter Steinert has on his farm here a wonderful dog. A short time ago the dog, a large Newfoundland, became the mother of five pups, but all except one died. About the same time a pig on the farm had a litter of pigs, and a cat had kittens. The dog did not grieve over her loss long. She enticed four of the kittens and three of the pigs to her kennel and adopted them. The old dog is taking the best of care of her mixed family.—Greenwich (Conn.) Correspondence, Baltimore Sun.

Wireless Telegraphy on Motors.

Mr. Marconi has perfected a wireless telegraphic apparatus inside his motor car by which he can quickly travel to any part of the country and communicate to other cars and stations. The messages are taken successfully with the funnel, which may be raised or lowered. Messages can be transmitted while the motor is traveling. This motor was specially built for military purposes, and will take part in the next manoeuvers.—London Sphere.

Highest Award on Cocoa and Chocolate.

The Judges of the Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, have awarded three gold medals to Walter Baker & Co., Limited, Dorchester, Mass., for the superiority of their Breakfast Cocoa and all of their cocoa and chocolate preparations, and the excellence of their exhibit. This is the thirty-seventh highest award received by them from the great expositions in Europe and America.

Fiction Inspires Science.

Positively Jules Verne, with his amusing and suggestive fiction, has more than once inspired science and industry. More than once has he engendered miracles by imagining them in advance. But that is not the greatest of the services which he has rendered. The immortal merit of his work consists in his having created a new state of mind by enlarging the horizon of a too much stay-at-home race, and impregnating vocations ignorant of their own capabilities with energies which, had it not been for him, would have remained latent or sterile.—Paris Figaro.

Care of the Complexion.

Many persons with delicate skin suffer greatly in winter from chapping. Frequently the trouble arises from the use of impure soaps and cheap salves. The face and hands should be washed only in clear, hot water with Ivory Soap. A little mutton-tallow or almond oil may be used after the bath to soften the skin. ELIZA R. PARKER.

Mrs. Ellen Ripley, Chaplain Ladies Aid, Grand Army of the Republic, No. 7, 222 10th Ave., N. E., Minneapolis, Minn., Strongly Endorses Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Your Vegetable Compound cured me of ulceration of the womb, and getting such a complete cure I felt that the medicine had genuine merit and was well worth recommending to other sick women.

"For fifteen years I have been your friend. I have never written you before, but I have advised hundreds of women to take your medicine, in fact it is the only real reliable remedy I know of for a sick woman.

"I have not yet found a case of ovarian or womb trouble which has not been relieved or cured by the faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"You have brought health to hundreds of women in Minneapolis as you have no doubt to others over the country."—MRS. ELLEN RIPLEY.

TERRIBLE FIRE DISASTER

Many Persons Perish in a Fierce Conflagration in Philadelphia.

HEARTRENDING SCENES OF DEATH

Penned in an Eight-Story Building Men and Woman Die While Thousands Look on Unable to Help Them—Whole Business Block Threatened—Cause of Fire Unknown—Loss $500,000.

Philadelphia, Penn.—Twenty known dead and property loss amounting to upward of $500,000 is the result of a fire which occurred in the business section of the city. Over a score of persons were injured, and they were treated in the hospitals. The buildings destroyed were the eight-story structures Nos. 1219 and 1221 Market street, occupied by Hunt, Wilkinson & Co., upholsterers and furniture dealers, and three three-story buildings occupied by small merchantmen. The big furniture building extended back a half block to Commerce street, and was owned by Henry C. Lea.

Philadelphia never in her history experienced a fire which spread with such great rapidity. At 10.20 o'clock a. m. the blaze started in the building occupied by Hunt, Wilkinson & Co., and one hour later the sacrifice of life had been made and the immense loss of property had been accomplished. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Men and women died a lingering, agonizing death in the presence of thousands of spectators, who were unable to lift a hand to their assistance. The rear of Hunt, Wilkinson & Co.'s building faces on Commerce street, a small thoroughfare. On the fire escapes at this end of the building two men and one woman were slowly roasted to death, while the horror-stricken throng on the street below turned sick at the sight. In the front on Market street a woman, driven to desperation, leaped from a window on the top floor and was dashed to death on the pavement. These are only a few of the heartrending scenes attending the conflagration.

Seventy-nine of the 100 persons in Hunt, Winkinson & Co.'s building when the fire started were employes, and the rest were customers and outside workmen who were engaged in putting the finishing touches on the new eighth floor. More than half of the firm's employes were on the upper five floors, and it was among these that the greatest number were killed and injured.

By noon the fire was under control, and at 2 o'clock p. m. a force of men ordered by the Department of Public Safety began the work of clearing away the debris for the purpose of recovering the bodies of the victims buried in the ruins.

The loss is estimated at $500,000, most of which will fall on Hunt, Wilkinson & Co., whose loss is estimated at $250,000. Henry C. Lea's loss on the building is about $150,000. William F. Potts & Son suffered a loss of $60,000, while other occupants of the Potts buildings and surrounding property owners suffered losses aggregating $25,000.

MURDER OF A FARMER'S WIFE.

Killed While Driving to Meet Her Daughter—"A Trusty" Convict Arrested.

Concord, N. H.—Mrs. Nancy Jane Folsom was murdered in the town of Boscawen, a sparsely settled farming community fifteen miles from Concord. She was the wife of an industrious farmer. While driving from her home to the railroad station to meet her daughter returning from a school in this city she was waylaid, dragged from her carriage, assaulted and murdered and left among the roadside bushes.

The road from the Folsom home to the station is almost as wild as any in New Hampshire. Mrs. Folsom was waylaid about half way from her home to the station. Her head was crushed in with a conical stone, which was found near the scene, and was covered with blood.

George Greenleaf, an inmate of the county house of correction, was placed under arrest. One of his duties was to drive the cows to pasture, taking a route over the road where the murder was committed. Footprints were found which the authorities say tally with those of Greenleaf. Blood was found upon his shoes and clothing.

PAN-AMERICAN LOSSES.

Stockholders Will Lose the $2,500,000 and the Contractors About $1,000,000.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The decision of the directors to close the Pan-American Exposition on the night of November 2 has enabled the accountants to make a fairly accurate estimate of the loss which the Pan-American will suffer. It will exceed $4,000,000. The stockholders will receive back nothing for the $2,500,000 which they put in. Contractors who built the exposition will lose $1,000,000, and the issue of $500,000 second mortgage bonds will be defaulted as well as twenty per cent. of the first mortgage bonds.

TRAIN ROBBERS FOILED

Attack an Express Car With Dynamite, But Are Driven Off

Brave Messenger on the Southern Pacific Makes a Stand With a Gun and Wins a Fight.

Portland, Ore.—The north-bound overland express train on the Southern Pacific was held up by two masked men fifteen miles south of Eugene. The robbers blew open the express car with dynamite, but secured no booty, having been driven off by the express messenger. The only booty secured was one pouch of registered mail.

Two men boarded the train at Cottage Grove, a short distance this side, near Saginaw, put off the fireman and his helper, uncoupled the express car, and made the engineer pull ahead a short distance. Their first act was to blow open the door of the express car, which they did with dynamite, tearing the door to pieces and badly damaging the car.

Express Messenger C. Charles was ordered out, but he refused to go, and with his shotgun commanded the situation inside the car. The robbers told him to come out or he would be blown up with the car, but he replied, "Blow ahead." A fusilade of bullets followed, riddling the car, but the mesenger, who was uninjured, kept up a continuous fire from the inside, which held the robbers at bay.

A charge of dynamite with a burning fuse was then thrown into the car, but Charles grabbed it and extinguished the fuse. Next the robbers compelled the engineer to crawl up to the opening inside of the car, hoping to ues him as a protection from the messenger's shots, but the messenger kept up a steady fire over the engineer's head and still held the robbers at bay. The robbers then gave up their efforts to secure the express treasure, and went for the mail. They secured the registered mail, then cut the engine from the rest of the train and ordered Engineer Lucas to pull ahead. They ran to Judkin's Point, in the outskirts of Eugene, where they stopped and ordered the engineer to return and get his train.

The train arrived here in the afternoon. The express car is badly shattered, but it was brought in with the train.

GIRL RESTORED TO PARENTS.

Kidnaped by Gypsies Nine Years Ago and Cruelly Treated.

St. Marys, Ohio.—Nine years ago the daughter of Peter Bell, who then was ten years old, a miller living in St. Marys failed to return home from school. The belief was general that she had been drowned. A gypsy recently told Bell that his child had been abducted by a gang of gypsies nine years ago.

Bell at once made preparations to go in search of the girl, and with Mrs. Bell and their other daughter started for Indianapolis by wagon. They walked to Peoria, Ill., from there to Quincy, to Keokuk, Iowa, and finally traced the band of gypsies to Carthage, Mo.

When the gypsy leader was confronted by the father of the girl and local officers he drew a gun, but the officers overpowered him and he gave up the girl. The young woman says she had been compelled to beg food and clothing for the entire band of gypsies, who treated her cruelly. Mr. Bell intends to have the gypsies indicted and extradited to Mercer County, Ohio, for trial.

FLORIDA'S ORANGE CROP GOOD.

Some Predict That the Total Will Be 1,500,000 Boxes.

Jacksonville, Fla.—Florida's orange yield this year will be about 1,200,000 boxes, according to the best estimates made now. The fruit is fine, and some say that the yield will be 1,500,000 boxes.

Many people have come into South Florida since "the freeze" from the northern part of the State, and they have acquired small groves, which have been enlarged, so that the orange growing acreage is increasing each year.

A larger number of oranges will be sold on the trees this year than heretofore. The crop in the Indian River region is also said to be good.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 3—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—God's leading in our lives.—Ps. xxiii.

No words of the psalmist have had such a universal appreciation and influence as those contained in the Twenty-third Psalm. Their beauty and strength have been the delight of childhood, the admiration of manhood and the support of old age. Nowhere is the fact of God's leading in our lives more beautifully set forth than in the figure in this psalm of the shepherd leading the sheep into green pastures and beside the still waters.

The psalm suggests a number of facts concerning God's leading in our lives.

1. God leads us. This is the doctrine of this psalm. God does not drive us, but leads us. The eastern shepherd went before his sheep and led them. So the Lord as our shepherd leads us. What a comforting truth! The Lord is our shepherd and leads us. Our lives are not aimless and purposeless. God is in them and directs them.

2. God leads us daily. Daily the shepherd watched over his sheep and led them to the green pastures and by the cooling streams. Daily the Lord leads us. Day by day He gives us our daily bread. Constantly His providential care is over us. In the Shepherd's daily, hourly care of His sheep we may hear a voice saying unto us, "Every day will I bless thee."

3. God leads us individually. The singular personal pronoun is used throughout this psalm, and it gives it increased meaning and preciousness to read it, laying emphasis on the personal pronouns. "My," "I" and "Me" are everywhere used. "The Lord is 'my' shepherd, 'I' shall not want. He maketh 'me' to lie down in green pastures." God knows us and leads us as individuals, regardless of the multitudes of others in the world.

> Thou art as much His care
> As if nor man nor angel
> Lived in earth or heaven.

4. God leads us at all times. In storm and sunshine the shepherd cares for the sheep; in storm or sunshine, in adversity or prosperity, in life or death, the Lord leads us on. "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me, Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me!"

5. God's leading in our lives gives us calm and peace in all the conditions of our lives. Since the Lord leads us, we "shall not want" and need "fear no evil." This psalm breathes a spirit of calm and assured trust in God which should possess all who have accepted the leading of God in their lives.

Ex. xii, 41, 42; xiii, 20-22; Ps. xxv, 8-10; xxxi, 1-5; Neh. ix, 19; Isa. xl, 25-31; lviii, 11, 12; Math; xxviii, 19, 20; Luke i, 76-79; John xiv, 1-7.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 3, "God's Leading In Our Lives." Text, Ps. xxiii.

Courage, self reliance, strength, are fine to have and give one who has them confidence and power which are of much value in this world.

There is another side of life, however. The larger part of us are not gifted with these qualities. Timidity, distrust of self and weaknesses of many kinds have fallen to our share in the distribution of things, and we crave some one to rely upon, some one who knows all and understands us and whom we can trust. Our very want may be the means of our enrichment. Confidence in one's own powers and ability prevents any realization of need and leads to contentment and a certain pride of personality which narrows the life, stunts its growth and keeps it self centered.

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want!" No one utters that deep in his soul until he has felt want, known his own emptiness and longed for filling with good things. Enjoyment of food depends less on the richness of the provision than on the keenness of the appetite. Soul hunger gets one in condition to appreciate heavenly manna.

Not until we are ready to be led can the Lord become our Good Shepherd. When we feel able to feed ourselves and prefer to choose our own grazing ground, we know no need of a shepherd and will follow none.

Blessed are the poor and meek and hungry, for, being needy, they will be led, and when they are willing to follow God, they shall be filled with the best of His pasturage.

What comfort beyond expression breathes in this psalm, which through ages has been the language of devoted souls in many lands and under most diverse conditions.

It has a tone of joyous confidence better than abundance of good things could inspire. Not the satisfaction of the rich man who said, "I have much goods laid up for many years." The reliance is not on goods, but on God. The soul craves companionship with persons and starves in the midst of possessions. In the presence of its loved ones true affection finds its fullness.

Poverty and distress and hardest ordeals of endurance are not evil, but shall yield deepest and abiding comfort; for correction of wrong aims and ambitions is accomplished and the sympathetic nearness of the Leader is realized as never before. 'Rod and staff give comfort." Oh, what blessedness comes to the heart as it gradually comes to the consciousness of the abiding helpfulness and nearness of God!

The ordinary routine of life may be dull indeed and wearing, but to every heart is given the privilege of knowing the shepherding of the Christ and to feel in all the depths of the being the conscious presence and favor of Him who loves supremely, who leads unerringly and comforts with a divine comforting.

"The Lord is my shepherd."

To the Eye of Faith.

Only to the Christian is the world very fair today as well as yesterday. He knows that change must come and knows not what a day may bring forth. But the reflection does not disturb him, because it is accompanied with the knowledge that his Father still rules and does according to His will among the children of men. He alone has the assurance that "all things"—yes, every event—shall work together for his good. To the eye of faith the world is very fair today, and tomorrow or some other day not distant will surely usher in one that is fairer and brighter, even a morning without clouds.—Episcopal Recorder.

Trust.

I do not know, I cannot tell,
What time may bring to me,
But this I know—God doeth well,
And He will care for me.
Sometimes my path in darkness lies,
My heart is sore perplexed;
I lift to God my longing eyes
And feel no more oppressed.

Thus light is cast upon my way,
All darkness disappears;
My dreary night is changed to day;
Trust triumphs over fears.
Oh, blessed, blessed attitude
That brings my God so near,
Inspires my heart with fortitude
Through afith serene and clear!

Reunion of the 22nd Regt. Pa. Cavalry.

The annual reunion of the 22nd Pa. Cavalry, held at Marklesburg on Friday, the 18th inst. was one long to be remembered by the comrades, because of the pleasant associations connected with it. The weather was delightful the attendance large, and the reception of the boys by citizens enthusiastic. A happy greeting was extended to all comrades.

With the exception of a short business session the day was given to social enjoyment, to renewing old ties, and inquiring after absent comrades. At the afternoon camp fire comrades related many incidents of army life some amusing; others pathetic, that were interesting to the younger people present.

The Newton Hamilton drum corps, under the leadership of Prof. Morrison, added much to the pleasures of the day, by the excellent, music rendered and by the proficiency in drill, and by the gentlemanly conduct of its members.

A free dinner was prepared by our citizens, but such was the abundance of good things provided for the inner man, that a free supper was also partaken of by all present.

Letters from comrades regretting their inability to be present with the boys were received and read. They were from Mrs. Colonel Higgins, Colonel Greenfield, Captain Boring, Lieutenant Sharrer, Rev. S. W. Gehretts and others. We regret that the letters from Mrs. Higgins and Captain Boring reached us to late to be read to the comrades.

Next reunion of the association to be held at Everett, Bedford county, Pa., October 16th 1902.

The officers for the ensuing year are: President, Comrade I. T. Sheeters, Everett, Pa. secretary, Comrade Felton, Everett, Pa. Comrade Dr. A. R. McCarthy, Mount Union, Pa. is the recording secretary of the regimental association, and all deaths of members of the regiment should be reported to him.

And now to the members of the Matthew G. Isett Post, No. 635, G. A. R., to the ladies on the committee on entertainment, to the good people who so cheerfully gave of their money and eatables, and to all who by their presence and help added so much to the pleasure and success of the reunion of our comrades, we extend our grateful thanks.

Faith and Work.

Faith stands for the religion of the heart; work stands for the religion of the life. These two God has joined together. Let no man put them asunder, for there is no genuine religion without them in active union. Just as love in the soul finds a way to manifest itself so as to attract the attention, please and benefit the one loved, so genuine faith in the Lord Jesus moves its possessor to earnest, joyful action along lines of practical Christian usefulness. Where there is no such action there is no genuine faith.—Religious Telescope.

A Miracle.

I see no miracle in Christ's advent;
It is not mythical in that 'tis old,
But I see grandeur in this sweet intent,
Of love that bears with sin so manifold;
I see the largess our Creator gives
To worlds unnumbered and each thing that lives.

I should have marveled had there been no sign
Of His great purpose given unto man;
No explanation of His love divine
That runs, a golden thread, through all the plan;
'Twould have been wondrous had there been no chord
Of revelation from the Lord.

But one thing must forever be to me
Most wonderful, beyond all things of time,
That there should be such light and man not see
In nature's mirror, burnished and sublime,
A Maker's image and a Father's care,
A refuge from the world and from despair.

O scientist, philosopher and sage,
This is the strangest paradox of all:
Beyond expression that from age to age
Love should endure, yet few accept the call,
And God keeps loving on year after year;
Who seeks a miracle may find it here.
